The Defense of Kendall, Dawes & Co., Dissected by the Otoe Statesman.

The Investment of State Funds and Disposition of the Proceeds.

How American Labor is Protected with Pauper Labor and Starvation Wages.

Senator Van Wyck delivered an address at the Knox county fair at Creighton, Thursday October 2d. After discussing the comparative productions of our own and other nations, the elevation of labor, the great advancement thereof, increased production, increased cost, and what should be increased profit, and the subjects of markets and transportation, he said:

A discovery which should increase the yield of wheat or corn five bushels per acre would be hailed with joy; but you can do better; you can increase the price of your land by a reduction of taxation, by an efficient and honest administration of your

SCHOOL LANDS AND FUNDS.

An apology for free speech on this occasion cannot be necessary. We all understand the despotism of certain leaders, a class of men who believe their party can do no wrong, and the opposite party do no right; who believe that brethren in their own party must obey the regulation legmas and receive anathemas in case they dare question or dissent. Unfortunately all parties possess a few small souled men sometimes filling high positions, desiring to be considered the priesthood ministering at its altars, particularly if there be any fruits of the sacrafice to excite their devotion-men who love creed; but spoils more.

THESE LITTLE FELLOWS are plways fearful lest opinions in antagonism to their creed, and the hierarchy will unsettle platforms, and the denunciations of fraud in officials will overwhelm the party, forgetting that error can do no harm where truth is left free to combat it. Some weeks ago I criticised the conduct of the state school board, when I was charged with hostility to Governor change as graftying school lands in Keith county. Suppossaitis complete soon takes place in the appearance, as well as pearance, as well as said, afterward I as publicly returned the sensation of the thanks that he and the state treasurer had censured the leasing by mildly voting no and argued that Governor Dawes had thus protested against the wrong. Why not I? The people had a right to expect > by a mandamus and not leave it for citizens of a distant county, to save the school lands and the reputation of the state? I was striking at the offence, and not lished report is true that he had undertaken a defense of the criminals. If the board was right why did the governor vote against the leasing?

Pardon a few more suggestions. Uncry. We have always professed to punish our own criminals, and now is it treason to party to denounce crime and criminals? This is a good time to look after

STATE AFFAIRS.

Nothing, not even stealing one quarter or one-half the school lands, would change the result on the electoral ticket. That will take care of itself. The state board have grouped all their

The inquiry is not how many acres have been sold from the beginning, but how many have been sold and lerged by this board, when, and at what terms. It is true enough for an axiom, once a railroad attorney, always a railroad attorney. People must expect that when they elect one. As well expect

One other fact is apparent in congress. An attorney for one company is an attorney for all. When the question is between railroads and the people, even their raues are pooled. It is all ve. , well to talk about the conflict of capital and labor but which is generally the aggressor? more than the assessed value of the real parellel ceases. They want free trade in wool, but not in woolen goods; they wantfree trade in iron

SOME CHANGES AND MODIFICATIONS IN THE TARIFF.

Then commenced the old tactics, of how not to do it. A commission composed of protectionists recommended a reduction of about 25 per cent, Congress wrestled with the subject for months. Pardon me for saying of myself that I was willing for ON MANHOOD for saying of myself that I was willing for a reduction of duty on the raw mate all if a corresponding reduction could be had on the manufactured product, but in the end it was apparent that the manufacture ers desired a reduction on the raw material and not on the manufactures therefrom. They talked lond and long of protection to American labor; but was only the labor that brought money to the the purse of combined capital. We need a genuine protection to American labor, which is the thing least protected by our thriff, the only thing in which free trade is tolerated. The Pacific coast cannot protect itself agains. Chinese coolies. The operatives in the cific coast cannot protect itself agains Chinese coolies. The operatives in the east cannot protect themselves against THE IMPORTATION OF CONTRACT LABOR

The American woolgrower cannot be suitably protected against the pauper labor of Australia and worker when demanding wages that will furnish bread for his children is 'locked out," and agent; are sent to import pau-pers and criminals under contract. Call two or three years. This long array of figures from the establishment of the money received that the state obtained in national convention has sustained the vote I gave against the tariff of 1882, by wonderful plea is made that because that was done the board should be acquitted.

mouth long enough and loud enough to say "that at this time most of its invested—give the when was it invested—give the dates. When public attention was directed to this inquiry they thought it prudent no longer to defy the law. The board has had a rest. Let them now answer the questions—where the hundreds of the wool-growers became dissatisfied, as they had a right to be. There was no necessity to reduce it and apply free trade to them. Except manufacturers demanded it, they were willing the tariff should be reduced if the wool-growers became dissatisfied, as they had a right to be. There was no necessity to reduce it and apply free trade to them. Except manufacturers demanded it, they were willing the reduced if the wool-growers should be reduced if the wool-growers should be reduced if the wool-growers became dissatisfied, as they had a right to be. Except manufacturers demanded it, they were willing the tariff should be reduced if the wool-growers became dissatisfied, as they had a right to be. There was no necessity to reduce it and apply free trade to them. Except manufacturers demanded to them. Except manufacturers demanded to them.

Now mark, the same influence which struck down the duty will keep it down. In congress we depress the wool industry and a few months later throw a sop to it by a resolution in national convention that we will use our efforts to restore it, when it is evident our master, capital, will not allow it to be restored. Yet these little fellows who are proud to be owned by corporate capital are very much annoyed at my

We proudly boast of our benefits as a nation but this republic will be freer and better when each citizen shall discharge his full measure of duty. There is much yet to be done in the field of labor. There are wrongs yet to be redressed there are still gleaning Ruths in the harvests of toil. The grand bard of Scotland was not even by England's laws charged as a demagogue or inciting labor against capital when the bitter lamentation of his soul went out in poetry:

"The sun that overhangs you moor, Outspreading far and wide— Where hundreds labor to support A haughty lordling's pride.

"See yonder poor o'erlabored wight, So abject, mean and vile, Who begs a brother of the earth To give him leave to toil; And see his lordly fellow man The poor petition spurn, Unmindful though a weeping And hopeless offspring mourn."
